

HAVE A RIDE WITH HONDA & MXTV, RAISE MONEY FOR KIDS WITH CANCER

Places are still open for the Honda MXTV Charity & Buladelah Trail Bike Rally on Oct 27-28, 2007 which is set to take place in prime riding areas located just 2 ½ hours from Sydney.

“This will be an awesome weekend with trails open on Saturday and Sunday in the forest, as well as a nippers and juniors track for the kids on private property,” said organizer Rod Cartwright of trailbikerallies.com.au.

The Rally will take place just north of Buladelah, with the course mapped out over one short and one long loop. Both loops have hard, easy and novice sections.

Honda Australia are also providing a 2007 Honda CRF50 as the major prize, and trailbikerallies.com.au will be giving away a heap of other “goodies” over the weekend.

Camping is available on site from Friday, and the Coolongolook Tennis club will be providing catering throughout the weekend.

“There will be plenty of things happening over the weekend. There will be a heap of displays set up so you can check out the latest in gear and accessories, and Saturday night will be rocking with entertainment to keep you amused in front of the bonfire,” Rod said.

The cost of the Honda MXTV Trail Bike Rally is $100.00 for adult entry or $140.00 for the family including mum, dad and two kids under 17 yrs old. (A $20.00 surcharge applies for bookings made after Oct 13th).

Twenty percent of every ride entry will be donated to the Children’s Cancer Institute of Australia via the Stephen Walter Fund.
